

Directory of the Arts

Julie Thompson-Dobkin

Art as Education/ Art for Social Justice

"The Kant Institute: Hidden Truths Project's utilizes art as an educational tool. Since its inception it has focused on 'Epilepsy Art'", which became a model for future projects focused on at-risk youth living in poverty, racial discrimination in the schools, and adult homelessness. Art is the platform to engage, empower, and become the voice for change. The Kant Institute is a 501(c)(3) organization dedicated towards fostering learning and the creation of public discussion surrounding key domestic issues. The Institute follows the motto of "sapere aude" or "dare to be wise" and seeks to act not as a teacher, but as a stimulus of critical thinking.

Business Name:

The Kant Institute

Website:

www.kantinstitute.com

Featured Image:

