Samuel Helm

Minimalistic Line Drawings Executed Digitally and Printed on Fine Art Paper.

Samuel Helm's current art work is done under the theme of human fortitude. Many pieces' deal with civil and human rights, gender discrimination, and public neglect of social needs. His art is executed digitally (no clip art and pasted images are used). Samuel Helm does not do art pieces for decorative purposes, although he does strive, to some extent, for beauty. His intent is to depict a thought provoking and morally and aesthetically positive situation common to the human condition. Samuel's interest is in creating art pieces that illustrate his theme without addition of extraneous imagery. He strives to accomplish that end with a minimum of imagery and no more than a minimalistic level of drawing artisanship.

By this fall, he anticipates to have an art show(s) that will publicly display 150 or so pieces. Late this year he expects to include these pieces in a full-color, coffee-table book. Almost all of the pieces for that volume are completed at this point. Following that series, he also expects to take up another theme. He says he may make frame-able prints of his art available for purchase through a website. If so, that will be later this year. Samuel Helm is also a poet. A volume of some of my poetry is available under his name at present through Amazon.com. He expects to make a second volume available soon.
