Sharon Hurd

Photography

Sharon Hurd is a Southern Californian photographer who has skillfully captured some of the most beautiful, unique, and poignant moments locally and throughout her travels. Sharon has thoughtfully created a multi-disciplinary body of work showcasing her stylized artist photography with an ethereal, painterly feel, as well as more traditional portraits and untraditional, candid moments.

Sharon began developing her artistic perspective from her earliest years. As a young girl sitting alongside her grandfather in weekly visits to his studio in historic downtown Santa Ana, he taught her composition, color theory, and creative wit as he sketched out newspaper cartoons and painted acrylic landscapes. Sharon's distinct style was further nurtured through floral design experience in her family's flower shop in Orange County. She has long intermingled with the local people and places in her community as a compassionate humanitarian and neighbor. Having grown up as a true Goat Hill girl with one of Costa Mesa's original goat barns in her backyard, she has always treasured her beloved childhood city and has grown to be a nature conservationist.

Sharon is a passionate and imaginative observer of the world around her. She is known for capturing ethereal moments in what some might find commonplace, like a flower in a field. Her inspired photographic eye seamlessly adapts to each situation and creates its own storied image, be it landscape, urban, special event or portraiture.
